

1. What is the training process for drug enforcement officers with regard to field testing for cannabis?
2. Please explain the process for saliva testing and its potential to determine whether a motorist is impaired due to cannabis?
3. What other states are using this process?
4. What data validates the process of field testing for cannabis, and specifically for cannabis, what data validates it?
5. Do you have any case reports you can share (anonymous obviously)?
6. What is the follow up if driver refuses field testing for alcohol or drugs? Is this the same?
7. How will enforcement of DUI laws be implemented?
8. Given that the cerebral cortex of humans does not fully develop until the age of 25, is there discussion at the State level of raising the legal age of marijuana use to age 25?
9. When and how long will it be until impairment levels are established?
10. What are the current protocols used to determine suspicion of a motorist driving under the influence of cannabis and probable cause for traffic stop and field testing?
11. Does BPD have select officers who serve as Drug Recognition Experts?
12. Regarding current saliva testing technology, are there any prescription or over-the-counter medications, foods, or other chemicals that are known to elicit a false-negative or false-positive cannabis saliva tests?
13. Are there established protocols to address the issue of suspected false-positive and false-negative cannabis saliva testing?
14. Will there be additional penalties for driving under the influence of cannabis if there are child passengers?
15. Cannabis testing can determine recent use of cannabis (within a few hours); how is this done?
16. It is reported that Colorado impaired driving fatalities have increased since that state legalized cannabis; what is Vermont doing to prevent a possible similar increase in impaired driving fatalities?